OLD BUSINESS

PATT'S UPDATE: Patt Fagan distributed an update on the library restructuring process with completed tasks, upcoming tasks and press releases. She also provided the board with information on phase two (vote related activities) spanning tasks for board members and the library's lawyer from January to the vote in May. Deadlines to submit library information for the school district newsletter are January 27 and March 17. The board will reserve the town of Oakfield's community center for a public meeting about the recharter on March 28, 2023 at 7 pm. Mailings with info on the recharter will be sent out three weeks before the vote.

SLOGAN UNVEILING (TREE LIGHTING): The unveiling went well! Board president Carol D'Alba gave a short speech about the new slogan before it was lit up in the library's window. Free cocoa and cookies were passed out to those in attendance.

TALENTED THURSDAYS UPDATE: The library hosted a make your own giraffe stuffed animal workshop as well as adult and kid ornament and card making classes.

ART SHOW: Terry Kolb spoke about each of the artworks on display at the library. The paintings will be picked up December 27.

CHRISTMAS IN THE PARK (DEC. 3): 78 people attended the library's planned day activities for this event.

COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY CLASSES BOOKED: Classes for February and March were booked through Nioga. The instructor will provide training on any electronic devices patrons need help with.

DEMENTIA WORKSHOP: The workshop was canceled due to lack of interest.

BUDGET: The board reviewed the 2023 budget of $136,469. The budget will require the use of $34,769 from the appropriated fund balance. Motion to approve the 2023 budget by Justin Staebell with second by Lynette Crawford. Motion carried.

NEW BUSINESS

STAFF CHRISTMAS LUNCH: The lunch was held Tuesday, December 13 from 12-2 pm.

INFORMATIONAL BOOKLET: Kim Gibson attended a Nioga meeting and brought back an example of a booklet listing important local business information. Tiffany Gould put together a rough copy of an informational booklet for Oakfield-Alabama. Some changes to be made before distributing to patrons.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT TRAINING: Library staff and board members completed this training.

INFORMATION TO ALABAMA: Kim Gibson dropped off new library calendars and bookmarks to the town building.
